THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION.
MORE OF PROFESSOR BEHRING'S THEORIES.

Paris, Oct. 7.
According to the Petit Parisien, Professor Behring, in his communication to the Tuberculosis Congress, will declare that he does not believe that the tuberculous bacillus penetrates our organism by the lungs, but, contrary to what is generally thought, by the intestines, and that, too, in the first hours of life. Professor Behring says that cow milk almost always contains tub-erculous bacilli. These bacilli penetrate into the intestines of the infant, pass through the intestinal mucous membrane like a filter, and reach the lymphatic ganglions. If the organism is weakened by any cause they leave the ganglions, invade the lungs, fill them with tubercles, and hollow out caverns. If instead of giving the child cow's milk containing bacilli it is given milk from cows which have been vaccinated and rendered immune against tuberculosis, the germ will no longer exist, because it always dates from infancy and comes from bacilli contained in the milk.
The Professor will remind his hearers that by a process which he never kept secret, he succeeded in rendering cows immune, and in vaccinating calves against tuberculosis. Up to the present it has not been possible to use his process in the case of man, but that which was impossible yesterday will perhaps be possible to-morrow.

FURTHER RESEARCHES NECESSARY.
The Journal states that the communication which Professor Behring will make to the Tuberculosis Congress comprises about four pages of printed matter. It is excessively scientific, and in order to understand it the public will need the services of a populariser of bacteriological questions. The Professor will explain how he succeeded in injecting animals with living bacilli without danger to the animals in curing tuberculosis in cattle, and as, in his view, human tuberculosis is of the same nature, it will only be necessary to apply his method to man in order to overcome the malady. Professor Behring has been much annoyed by the reports that he desired to withhold the secret of his remedy. He never intended to do so. He will publicly tell to-day all that he has to tell, and in a few months his fellow-workers will be able to share his communication of the result of his ulterior researches. The Journal makes it clear that the researches of Professor Behring demand others before his method can be applied to man.

PROFESSOR'S IMPORTANT STATEMENT.
At the closing sitting of this afternoon of the International Congress on Tuberculosis, under the presidency of Dr. Herard supported by M.
Casimir-Périer and M. Léon Bourgeois, Professor Behring made the following statement on the subject of his treatment of tuberculosis:
"In the course of the past two years I have come to recognise with certainty the existence of a curative principle completely different from the antiseptic principle described by me fifteen years ago. This new curative principle plays the essential part in the immunising action of my vaccine which for four years has been employed in agricultural practice in the battle against tuberculosis in cattle. This principle rests on the impregnation of the living cells of the organism by a substance coming from the virus of tuberculosis, which I call 'T.C.' It becomes an integral part of the cells of the organism of animals treated by it, and it is metamorphosed by these cells. I describe it by the formula 'T.X.' In the tuberculosis bacillus the 'T.X.' or rather the 'T.C.' persists as an agent endowed with a great number of extraordinary qualities."
"This agent fulfils the function in the tuberculous bacillus of a formative substance. Besides this, it possesses, especially catalytic qualities. This agent is able to fix in an electric manner by contact other substances, a phenomenon which is called absorption.
Moreover, in certain conditions it possesses assimilative qualities. In a word, it represents the quasi-vital principles of the bacilli. In my view in the process of the immunising of bovids against tuberculosis the 'T.C.' of the bacilli is freed from accidental substances, and particularly in the cellular elements which derive from the germinative centres of the lymphatic tissues.

"The presence of the 'T.C.' is the cause, on the one hand, of the hypersensibility of Dr.
Koch's tuberculin; and, on the other hand, of the protective reaction against tuberculosis."
"The road was long by which, after having overcome many obstacles, I arrived at the conception of the mode of anti-tuberculosis immunisation. This conception of a cellular immunity is quite different from the antiseptic humoral immunity."—Pull Mall Gazette.

HEALTH UTTERLY BROKEN.

ANEMIA, NERVOUS BREAKDOWN, INDIGESTION, RAPID WASTING, PALPITATIONS, INCIDENT CONSUMPTION

CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

The history of a terrible breakdown, the result of lack of blood (Anemia), and its wonderful cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the greatest strengthening medicine ever discovered, is here given by
Mrs. Lutton, 39
Wingfield-road,

land.
"The best doctors I could find I consulted," said she. "Each of them gave my complaint a different name, but my friends thought I was in Consumption."
"SO WEAK AND FRAIL"
had I become that I could neither eat, sleep, nor work.
"For some time I had suffered very badly from indigestion and a nervous breakdown.
I lost hope of ever being better, and never thought I should get out again. I had palpitations and severe pains in the chest. I fell away to a shadow. All food was repugnant."
"The Consumption I was hastening to was really due to lack of blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills gave me the blood I needed so badly, and that is why they cured me when no ordinary remedies could. Other medicine might have me up, but what I wanted was new blood."
"How soon after beginning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did you feel a change?"
"After I had taken two bottles I began to feel a different woman. I took five or six bottles, and by that time could eat my meals and enjoy them. I have since taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when I required a tonic, but my old complaint has never returned." Loss of appetite is a sign that food is not digesting. Weakness and Bile naturally follow. The splendid appetite which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give shows that they cure Indigestion at once. They do it by making New Blood. Mothers know why they and their daughters need new blood more than men; but men can be Anemic, too. The weak back, easy fatigue, lack of interest in life and general nervous weakness which trouble both men and women, need New Blood to cure them. Nerves that need new blood to feed them show their need in Neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, eventually Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and other breakdowns. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People can cure all these things; but only the genuine pills. To avoid substitutes, purchasers should take care to see the full name, as above, on the wrapper, before paying. [113]

British Naval Manoeuvres for 1906.

The Standard states that theoretically the Japanese navy will form part of a scheme of world-wide naval manoeuvres in 1906. It will be assumed that the situation is threatening, and the Anglo-Japanese navies are watching the enemies' ships throughout the world. Later when war breaks out a skeleton cruiser squadron representing the enemy will leave England with secret orders to keep every one on the alert for weeks.

Australian Immigration.

11th November.

Mr. Deakin has introduced in the House of Representatives amended immigration Bills, the first of which provides that the Commonwealth may make arrangements with the Government of any other country by which merchants and tourists may enter and travel under passports, other natives being prevented from emigrating to Australia at port of shipment (sic).

Mr. Deakin emphasised that while carrying out the policy of a white Australia they were not called upon to cast a slur on other people. There were two races which had peculiar claims to our respect and admiration: the Hindoos were entitled to special consideration as forming a part of the Empire, and so were the new people who are allied with the Empire. It was desirable to so amend the law as to avoid hurting any susceptibilities.

The second Bill deals with the imposition of contract labour which it sanctions under certain circumstances.

FASHIONABLE CHINESE WEDDING.

MR. LAU CHU PAK'S RECEPTION.

Comparatively few Europeans have had the opportunity of witnessing the pomp and circumstance which attend the wedding ceremonies of a wealthy Chinese gentleman, and therefore the invited guests at the wedding of the son of Mr. Lau Chu Pak, the well-known comprador of Messrs. A. S. Watson, Co., Ltd., participated in a unique festival and enjoyed an experience which was all the more interesting because of its rarity. A fashionable Chinese wedding extends over three or four days, and yesterday saw the opening of the ceremonies at Mr. Lau Chu Pak's residence. The grounds were decorated for the occasion, and the interior of "Ardmore" was lavishly embellished. In the early morning, from 7 till 10 a.m., the Chinese friends of Mr. Lau Chu Pak called and offered their congratulations on the auspicious occasion. From noon till four o'clock the Europeans were received, and there was a very representative gathering of the Civil Service and Government Departments and of the mercantile community at Mr. Lau Chu Pak's residence.

Mr. Lau Chu Pak, attired in mandarin's dress with feather and crystal button, personally received the guests as they arrived, and introduced them to his son, Mr. Lau Wing Ching, the bridegroom-elect, who also appeared in the costume of an official, but was distinguished by the red scarf which was crossed like a ribbon on his breast, while his headgear was a fancy arrangement in scarlet. The approach of visitors was heralded by a fanfare of drums and Chinese horns which made people, even those accustomed to the blaze of public opinion, wince in embarrassment. The musicians seemed to divine a guest, for almost before he appeared at the entrance to "Ardmore," they struck up the high and shrill sounds which set every one on the qui vive. Indeed, one of the delights of the function was found in watching how different guests attempted to disguise their embarrassment when they found themselves suddenly on the stage, as it were. Before one o'clock the drawing-room was crowded with people, and the weather being beautiful, an adjournment was made to the garden where seats and tables were laid out, and the health of the bride and bridegroom toasted. Facing the garden were a number of scrolls bearing Chinese characters all relating to wishing the bridegroom good luck.

Among those present were the Hon. Mr. W. Chatham, Director of Public Works, the Hon. Mr. A. W. Brewin, Registrar-General, and Mrs. Brewin, Mr. E. A. Irving, Inspector of Schools, Mr. W. J. Titcher, Botanical and Afforestation Department, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Woodcock, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. France, Dr. Pearse, Medical Officer of Health, Mr. D. E. Clarke, the European and Chinese Staffs of Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd., Mrs. Noble, Mrs. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. T. Peirce, Mr. J. P. Bragg, Mr. Pang Shau Chun, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Swaby, Mr. Fung Wa Chuen, Mr. Chau Siu Ki, Mr. J. L. Cotter, and many others.

In the drawing room, the guests were introduced to Mrs. Lau and the ladies of the family who, albeit of a retiring disposition, expressed the utmost good-will and friendliness to their European visitors. Mrs. Lau insisted that the male section should quaff a glass of wine with her in honour of her son's marriage, and there was a right royal response to the invitation. Indeed, nothing was left undone to entertain the European visitors, and it is safe to say that a good many of those present learned for the first time what Chinese hospitality really means, and how a Chinese gentleman does honour to his friends. There was an abundance of refreshments, and to show how the comfort of the visitors was considered it may be mentioned that there were two drawing rooms, one where the gentlemen could smoke at their ease, and another, a beautifully decorated apartment, where the ladies assembled and chatted with the host and hostess. The walls of the ladies' room were hung with embroidered emblematic scenes. One banner, which was a present to the bridegroom from the scholars of the Ellis Kadoorie school, (of which Mr. Lau Chu Pak is president) bore a pictorial design of four generations of males. The senior was represented holding a pomegranate, while behind the males was a Chinese lady, the whole scheme being an illustration of the bliss and happiness which attend a contented mind and a happy married life. The names of the donors of the banner were enshrined in letters of gold. But all the decorations were worth attention. Allegorical scenes, which appeal so strongly to the Chinese mind, were on every side, and many of the guests spent a profitable day in examining the designs and elucidating their meaning. The Chinese present, when they were not catering to the wants of the Europeans, were engaged in telling the stories which these allegories represented.

Many interesting incidents occurred during the reception and served to while away the time, although for that matter there was never any chance of the visitor feeling dull. At one stage, three little girls mounted on white palfreys rode into the grounds of the house and presented gifts to the bridegroom. They were ambassadors from the bride, who thus made propitiatory offerings to her future lord and master. It is usually said and believed that the bride does not see her future husband until the wedding ceremonies are completed, but that is very much a myth so far as the educated class in Hongkong are concerned. The bride, who is the daughter of a Californian merchant, Mr. Chung Yuet Kai, had seen the bridegroom and knew very well that the prospect of a happy life were all that could be desired.

In the course of the afternoon, a goat gaudily dressed with scarlet ribbons was led out of the grounds and sent to the bride's house. The goat represented the bridegroom, which may seem funny from the Western point of view. It appears that in former days, the bridegroom was expected to go to the house of the bride in propria persona, but the duties of a bridegroom are so onerous and fatiguing that a substitute was found in a goat. Later in the day the bridegroom himself went to greet his bride, accompanied by an immense paraphernalia of ornamental sedan chairs, banners, gongs, horns, and drums.

Shortly before four o'clock the fireworks were set off, and the cars of those present were crackling with the din long ere the pyrotechnic display had finished. Then the bridal procession was formed and paraded round the grounds so that the guests might inspect the varied exhibits. It would be impossible to convey any idea of the character of the things that were carried; suffice it to say that they formed a procession the like of which has seldom been seen in Hongkong. After again pledging the health of the bride and bridegroom, wishing them luck, prosperity and long life, and thanking Mr. and Mrs. Lau Chu Pak for the generous hospitality which had been so lavishly dispensed, the guests departed. Yesterday was only the first day of the marriage ceremonies. Mr. Lau Chu Pak and his son had been busy receiving guests, running hither and thither in order that none might be overlooked, from 7 o'clock in the morning; it was now five o'clock in the evening and they started on their travels to the bride's residence. There was a big dinner to attend in the evening, and there were two more days of these festivities. Little wonder that they should feel fatigued after their exertions, but there was no evidence of weariness or lack of warmth in the hearty manner in which Mr. Lau Chu Pak looked after the welfare of his guests.

The wedding presents, of which there were a large number, were displayed in the drawing room, and attracted much attention. Among those sent were: Mrs. William Noble, picture "After the Storm"; Mr. S. H. Michael, cloisonne vase; Mr. and Mrs. Titcher, Japanese photo frame; Mr. Wm. Davies, pair silver flower stands; Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, gold pencil case; Mr. and Mrs. Swaby, cushion; Dr. Ma Luk, silver watch; Mr. E. J. Moses, silver bouquet stands; Mr. and Mrs. Barker, set of diamond and enamelled links; Messrs. A. S. Watson's European Staff, pair of silver flower stands, and an overmantle marble clock; Mr. H. A. Meyer and Mr. E. Howard, silver flower stands; Mr. and Mrs. Young Hee, silver centre piece; Capt. J. G. Spedding, A.O.D., and Mrs. Spedding, one vase; Chinese staff of Watsons Ltd., silver tea set and mahogany tray; Mr. and Mrs. Jarakia, silver cigarette case; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shorridge, flower centre piece; English Masters of Ellis Kadoorie School, "Curiosities of Natural History"; Chinese friends, silver ash trays and ornamental silver vases; Rev. J. H. France and Mrs. France, silver engraving; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stapleton, figure of an infant; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Luke, an engraving "Isinglass winning the Derby"; Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock, Japanese plaques; Chinese friends, set of Chinese scrolls; Mr. and Mrs. T. Peirce, Japanese photo frames.

In the evening, the majority of the guests who had been present in the afternoon, sat down to a real Chinese dinner in one of the fashionable Chinese restaurants in the city. Everything that one has heard and read of as constituting Chinese fare was to be found on the menu. The first course appeared about 8 p.m., and three hours later the guests were still busy with shark's fins and one knows not what. Of course the usual toasts were honoured and if Mr. Lau Chu Pak had previously had any doubt as to the regard and esteem in which he is held by his European friends, such a doubt was effectually dissipated last night.

A CLAIM FOR INTEREST.

Before His Honour Mr. A. G. Wise, Puisne Judge, this afternoon in Summary Jurisdiction, Tam Chak U, gentleman, sued Yung Fai Un and Cheng Sing Im, compradors, for the recovery of $114, being the amount of 23 Chinese months' interest, at the rate of $18 per month, due on a promissory note for $600 signed, and given by the defendants to the plaintiff on the 28th December, 1903.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada e Castro appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. H. A. Harding for the first defendant, the second being absent and unrepresented. Mr. d'Almada e Castro read the promissory note signed by the defendants, wherein it was set forth that the claim would be paid off in full, with all interest due, within three months. He stated that the rate of interest was $3 per $100 per month. At the expiration of the three months the defendants asked the plaintiff to allow them a further three months in which to pay the amount due, when the amount would be paid in full. That amount had never been paid, hence this suit.

The plaintiff then testified to the above effect. Cross-examined by Mr. Harding, plaintiff said he had advanced the sum of $1,310 to the defendants since the making of the promissory note in question. The first defendant did not sign the addition to the promissory note, as he said one signature would suffice. Witness got both signatures to the original promissory note, but not to the addition as there was not space for two to sign. When defendants received his solicitor's letter pressing for the payment they applied to him for extension of time for payment. He received two promissory notes of $700 and $650 in renewal of his notes of $600 each.

Mr. Harding: I put it to you that you received those notes in settlement for payment of your promissory notes?—No, they were new promissory notes on new loans.

Why, when you were pressing for payment, through your solicitor for $600, did you go and lead $1,350 to the defendant?—They said that they were hard pressed and wanted some money.

But you had instructed your solicitor to take proceedings?—Yes, but they said it would be no use his taking action.

And on that account you made a further loan?—Yes.

Mr. d'Almada e Castro: This is getting interesting.

His Lordship: Does he smoke opium now? Plaintiff: No.

His Lordship: What? No? Look at his face! Mr. Harding, continue.

Witness said that the first defendant applied to him for delivery of the old promissory notes when the new ones were signed? No, because they did not repay me any money.

You did not make the excuse that your son had locked them up and was out at the time when defendant called?—No.

His Lordship: It is a pity we did not have this man here in the morning; then we might have got the truth out of him. He is slightly up hill now but not later. Mr. Harding: How many times you brought these actions against defendants in respect of loans of a later date, for which you got judgment with costs, and yet never included the amount you are now suing for?—Because I could not find the promissory notes.

The case was adjourned to admit of proper translations of the notes being made.

A guard of 100 soldiers accompanied the Commission. House boats had been sent on to Sam-shui and the Commissioners will proceed to Lien-chau in their boats. The distance from Sam-shui is about 250 miles and the journey will occupy about ten days.

The train on its arrival at Sam-shui was met by all the local officials and a guard of soldiers. To-morrow morning a start will be made. The water in the North River is very low and progress will be slow.

A chapel belonging to the Lien-chau station and located at Shek-kok about seven miles was looted the day following the massacre at Lien-chau. Just as soon as the villagers at Shek-kok heard that the Mission building at Lien-chau had been destroyed and the missionaries killed, a crowd of roughs rushed to this chapel and looted everything belonging to the mission.

AMERICA'S CLAIMS.

Confirming the telegraphic report we printed last week, the following telegram appears in the N. C. D. News of Thursday last:—

Peking, 8th November.

As reparation for the murder of American citizens at Lien-chau, Mr. W. W. Rockhill, the American Minister, has demanded the payment of an indemnity, and the cashiering of the prefect and Viceroy responsible.

There being symptoms of an anti-American movement, and the lives of foreigners having been threatened, the Waiwupu has been asked to order the local officials to protect them.

QUESTION OF LAUNCH HIRE.

In the summary Court this morning before His Honour Mr. A. G. Wise, Puisne Judge, Messrs. Tay Kee and Co. of No. 154 Des Voeux Road, Gen. ral, sued Heinrich Gutemey, an assistant in the office of the Consul-General for Germany, to recover the sum of $32, due to plaintiff by defendant for the hire of a steam launch. Mr. O. D. Thomson appeared for the plaintiff, defendant conducting his own defence.

Mr. Thomson said that the plaintiffs were steam launch owners and claimed the sum of $32 due by the defendant for the hire of a steam launch on the 18th July last for 214 hours, for $10 and on the 1st September, for three hours for $12. On the first occasion when the defendant visited the plaintiffs' shop he saw an employee and asked for a launch; the employee accompanied him to where the launches were kept, but finding them that no launches were at the time available, in accordance with a custom prevailing amongst the launch owners, the plaintiffs got a launch from another party, which they let to defendant; they taking the responsibility for the payment of its hire and its proper usage. The defendant engaged that launch and took it to Lauchekok, returning thence at 7.30 p.m., when he was asked to sign an acknowledgment of his indebtedness for the hire of the launch. This he refused to do, and nobody of his party would sign. The plaintiffs were unable to discover the defendant's name, and accordingly could not apply anywhere for payment. The defendant, however, called again on the 3rd September when he saw the manager of the plaintiff firm. On that occasion he hired a launch which he used for three hours and on returning to the wharf signed an acknowledgment. The plaintiffs then discovered that this was the man who had hired the launch in July, and accordingly the manager of the plaintiff firm, with one of his foiks went to the German Consulate-General and applied to defendant for the hire of the launch on the two occasions. The defendant at first referred the manager to some gentleman in the German Club but on calling on him there the latter refused to pay and sent the manager back to defendant. On the second occasion of the manager's calling on the defendant for payment the latter refused to pay, and catching hold of the manager and his foik he hustled them down the stairs, and pushed them out of the Consulate. Then the suit was brought. Defendant admitted hiring the launch on the 3rd September but denied that he hired one on the 18th July.

His Lordship: Were you a passenger on the launch on the 18th July?

Defendant: I don't know, but if I hired it I would not have refused to sign a bill.

Chow King Chee said he was an employee in the plaintiffs' company's firm. On the afternoon of the 18th July defendant came to the shop of the plaintiff company and asked witness if he had any launches for hire. Witness said he had and went with defendant to the wharf where the company's launches were moored, but on getting there he found all the launches away. Witness then went and engaged another firm's launch on defendants' behalf, and the latter used it for two and a half hours, but on returning to the wharf defendant refused to sign a bill in acknowledgment of the hire of the launch.

Witness did not know defendant or where his office was, so could not apply anywhere for payment, but on the 3rd September defendant again came to the shop and hired a launch which he used for three hours, and for that he signed a bill on returning to the wharf.

His Lordship to defendant, You admit hiring a launch on the 2nd September, do you not?

Defendant: Yes, I hired one then.

His Lordship: What about the first?

Defendant: I don't know. It might have been in July that I went out in a launch for a picnic party—it was in the summer—with two other gentlemen, but I did not hire it—Mr. Ulrich hired it.

His Lordship: Is that the gentleman you sent the plaintiff to for his money?

Defendant: Yes.

His Lordship: Well, he sent him back to you refusing to have anything to do with the bill. I think you had better pay. July is a long time ago and you have probably forgotten the transaction.

Defendant: But I did not hire the first launch—I have witnesses. Mr. Ulrich and a gentleman who has now gone home.

His Lordship: Is Mr. Ulrich in Court?

Defendant: No, but I can call him.

His Lordship: But that would be no use as he has already repudiated any connection with the affair. You had better pay now and then see if you can arrange the matter with Mr. Ulrich afterwards.

Judgment for plaintiffs with costs.

RAIL CRUSHING.

Messrs. Benjamin, Kelly & Potts advise us that a private telegram from Singapore informs that the crushing for the past four weeks produced 505 ounces smelted gold from 5,949 tons of stone.

SHANGHAI FREIGHT.

Writing under date, Shanghai, 9th inst., Messrs. Wheelock & Co. state:—The amount of cargo offering for the Continent remains about the same. For New York, via Suez, the last few boats have done very well, but from now on we look for decrease in the amount of cargo going forward until the winter season commences, as the tea is about finished.

Coastwise:—This market has shown a slight improvement since our last, owing in part to the lack of small steamers, most of which have been taken up for Vladivostok. Coal rates have been as high as $1.75, and offers on this basis are still in the market, with almost no steamers to take advantage of them. Until the tonnage is released from Vladivostok the rates will probably continue to improve.

THE ECONOMIC GERMAN.

At a well known French restaurant—Mouquin's in Sixth Avenue—an entirely new system is in vogue, which consists in paying the waiters no wages at all, but giving them 6 per cent. on all they sell. Among all the myriad nationalities represented in New York, the Germans are the smallest tipsters.
The enormity of the American tipping habit presses specially hard on ladies dining alone.Mrs. E. S. Merry, a well known New York club woman with whom I discussed the subject, told me the following episode:—"I was one of a party of four ladies who went into the Waldorf-Astoria tea room one afternoon, and each of us ordered tea and cakes only, to the value of two shillings or so. Each lady paid her own bill, and left five-pence on her cake plate for the waiter. The man absolutely refused to touch it, so we simply put it back into our pocketbooks.""Unless something radical is done," declared another society woman, "to check the pre-

THE TIPPING EPIL.

EXTORTION IN NEW YORK WORSE THAN IN LONDON."L. S. F." has contributed the following to Daily Mail from New York:After having made it almost impossible for an Englishman or other foreigner to leave a Continental hotel without paying absurdly large tips, the evil has increased at home, from the American point of view to such an extent that the travelling public is at length thorowly alarmed and roused.Of course for years in London and Continental cities the very name "American" has been synonymous with millions; and at this moment Mr. McCormick is called in Paris "le sompueux Ambassadeur." Mrs. McCormick's house, No. 12, Quai de Billy, is one of the most magnificent palaces in Paris, with an "empty" rental of £4,000 a year. Prominent Americans are at length up in arms against tips of all kinds; but regretfully admit that it is their own lavishness at home and abroad which has caused the evil to grow to such an extent that fifty and even a hundred per cent. is looked for by waiters at smart restaurants like the St. Regis, the Astor, the Waldorf, Delmonico's and Sherry's.

"HUNGRY CROWS."

The "10 per cent." advocated in London and elsewhere is considered ridiculously low. Worst of all, the tips are even yet rising. "We have no standard of tipping in America," remarked a great railroad magnate. "It is a case of every man being a law unto himself, and the last diner outdoing his predecessor." Where sixpence was once courteously accepted, a shilling and even two shillings is now frowned upon.Not long ago I sat with my little family for a week-end by the sea, and it cost me £2 in fees to get out of that place with any respect to myself, and so as to avoid a scene before my family.A "palace of hungry crows," is the comic description given by Mr. William K. Vanderbilt of the servants at summer hotels in the mountains and by the sea. "If only," remarked another prominent New Yorker, "our waiters would be content with 100 per cent. more than London tips!" As a matter of fact, even if that proportion were offered them they would probably insult the diner, and—to quote from an actual case—suggest that he keep it
